Local, state, federal investigations sought in house fire

Plas for calm—and patience to await findings—are being voiced following arson at 2 a.m. Saturday that destroyed a vacant two-story frame residence at 1242 Robin St., Venice. Local and state investigations are in progress and some are seeking a federal probe.

A Mack family had sought to buy and repair the dilapidated home, and the remainder of the block is occupied by white families. However, integration of the South Venice area had been proceeding peacefully and with generally good relationships for several years.

All authorities agree that the final fire was set, and that a lesser blaze occurring there last Wednesday night also may have involved arson.

Concerned that the fire might be intended as a non-integration message, John H. Williams, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People branch chairman, has vowed that this would not be tolerated. White neighbors say the blaze may have been set by black outsiders to create friction.

The appeals for avoidance of escalating emotions note that threats are being received from telephone calls and from passing motorists.

Some of those mentioned in weekend news dispatches say they were misquoted or had not spoken to the newsmen who quoted them.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy (Queen) Wade had made a $500 down payment to the owner of the house, Roland Cagle of Granite City. Whether the $4,500 transaction could have been completed prior to extensive refurbishing of the building has not been established.

"When I made the down payment, I didn't think anything like this would happen," Mrs. Wade said in noting that her present Venice home is too small for her family's needs.

"I don't think this should be allowed to happen; I might go ahead and buy the lot. It's the principle of the thing. I feel my rights have been violated."

Venice Police Chief Ralph D. Brawley deplored the arson, commenting, "This kind of thing is very dangerous. Firemen can be injured, other homes destroyed, and even a whole block or a neighborhood be affected if the fire spreads."

The adjacent home of Edward E. Robertson at 1240 Robin St. Also might have burned Saturday had it not been a brick building, authorities said. The roof of the Robertson home is charred on the rear northwest corner and an exterior wall.

Brawley said, "Mr. Robertson told the firemen did a tremendous job in saving his home. The family had been asleep at the time the fire began."

Fireman Gary Wallace, 27, of 818 Third St., Venice, suffered second-degree burns in half-dollar-size patches on his back. He was released after being treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital at 3:30 a.m. Saturday, and returned to the fire scene to assist.

Firemen were called to the 1242 Robin address at 2 a.m. Saturday and found the flames had made much progress. The structure was a total loss, Venice police continued to guard the ruins during the day while awaiting a state fire marshal.

Firefighters, who list the cause as arson, returned to the scene at 10:22 a.m. Saturday when tarpaper in the debris reignited.

A fireman said the residence was blazing when he arrived at the scene due to the completeness of the fire's destruction, it was indicated.

Discussing the earlier fire, Chief Brawley said Friday morning, "I sent our detective and another policeman along with two firemen to investigate. We couldn't find any signs of combustible material."

In the initial fire, the Venice fire department was at the house from 8:50 to 9:45 p.m. Wednesday. No damage estimate was made.

The police chief said, "We found an empty oil can dumped out, but it wasn't gasoline or anything like that. Wednesday's fire started between the walls, and the only hole we could find was the one made by firemen in fighting the fire."

A Venice city ordinance says that no dwelling can be rented or sold that is not up to listed standards for wiring, sewers, electric service and other aspects of the construction. Cagle had accepted the deposit and agreed to let the Wades fix the

Seek upgrading of arson control

Senator Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.) announced today that the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, reversing a long-standing policy will start helping local communities combat arson. The agency has previously accorded arson a low priority.

Percy disclosed that James Gregg, acting administrator of LEAA, has called on 55 state and territorial LEAA agencies which pass on federal crime control funds to local law enforcement units "to increase emphasis on anti-arson efforts in state plans and through allocation of block grant resources. Through our cooperative efforts, I am sure we can help local jurisdictions reduce the serious problems of arson that many of them are facing."

The Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations revealed a short time ago that over the past three years LEAA spent less than one-tenth of one percent of $2 billion distributed to local law enforcement agencies on arson control programs.

Percy, ranking Republican on the subcommittee which recently held four days of hearings on arson-for-profit, urged both the FBI and the LEAA during those hearings to target arson as a major law enforcement priority.

LEAA's action comes less than three weeks after FBI Director William Webster, also in response to evidence of arson's rise, directed field units around the country to target arson-for-profit as a major law enforcement priority of that agency.

Percy hailed the LEAA policy reversal, saying, "It is not too late to stem the rising tide of arson. By moving now in tandem

Domestic as well as foreign GC trade center

How to get the Tri-City Regional Port District's U.S. Foreign Trade Zone 31 off the planning board and into tangible contracts and facilities? Plan a domestic trade center to combine with the FTZ in the early years, detailed plans completed Friday afternoon disclose.

The proposed 120,000-square-foot trade center shown in the sketch at the left — 206 by 600 feet — is to contain 60,000 square feet for domestic purposes — operated by the Robert Schill Transfer and Storage Co. — and 30,000 for initial foreign trade zone activity, with another 30,000-square feet available for FTZ expansion. There are to be 14 truck bays and five rail bays, plus several office facilities in the 24-foot-tall multi-purpose warehouse structure.

When there is sufficient FTZ demand for the full building, Schill is to transfer from the 47-acre zone — situated on Old Alton Road at the Illinois Terminal Railroad's port area spur line — to the Port District's 64-acre industrial park.

A new building for Schill and other domestic trade firms is to be built at that time in the industrial park, which is located immediately north of the port office on Rock Road and immediately south of the railroad line and FTZ.

A $407,000 Urban Development Action Grant application, which has been submitted to the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council for its consideration, would be part of the $5,349,614 project. A decision on the grant is expected by the end of this year.

A second grant application is planned for a 200-car railroad storage yard that is to be established outside of but near the industrial park area. Freight cars carrying grain, soda ash and other materials currently congest the Port District and some have to wait as far away as Edwardsville before they can be emptied into storage and shipping facilities.

The Schill firm in East St. Louis is a 350-truck transfer operation that operates in the 48 continental states. Truck operations

Plan Saturday court

Moses W. Harrison II, chief judge of the Third Judicial Circuit, Madison County, has announced there will be Saturday court at the Madison County Courthouse, Edwardsville, beginning on Oct. 14.

Purpose of holding court sessions on Saturdays, Judge Harrison said, is to better serve citizens by providing "a more convenient time for working people to make a court appearance without losing wages or work time."

The matters to be heard on Saturdays are juvenile detention and shelter care hearings, animal control cases, zoning and environmental cases, and appearances in connection with State Police and Sheriff Department traffic citations.

It is anticipated that many people will choose to appear on Saturdays on traffic cases. Most traffic citations provide for an appearance date at which time the defendant appears before the court to enter a plea of either guilty or not guilty.

In lieu of the scheduled date which appears on the traffic citation, the defendant may select to appear between the hours of 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. on any Saturday prior to the appearance date listed on the citation, for the purpose of making an appearance before the court.

All persons receiving traffic citations from the State Police or Sheriff Department will receive a notice advising them of availability of a judge on Saturday mornings.

Judge Harrison said he isn't aware of any other county in Illinois providing a Saturday court program.

He commented, "This plan was developed through the cooperation of the Madison County Board, Sheriff Department, Third Judicial Circuit Court, State Police, Madison County state's attorney, the circuit clerk, and the public defender's

Granite City Police Chief Ronald J. Veizer today warned motorists that three new radar units have been received by the police department and a crackdown on speeding will begin within a week.

Veizer said the three new radar units and the department's three Vascar speed-detecting units will be put into use in enforcement of the city's speed limits on many streets where speeders are presenting a problem.

Kirchoff dies

Kiril J. Kirchoff, 51, of 18 Oaklawn Drive, a lifelong resident of Granite City and an area civic leader, died at 10 a.m. Friday at Queezy Towers in the Barnes Hospital complex in St. Louis.

He had been ill two weeks and was hospitalized for the same length of time.

For the past 18 years, Mr. Kirchoff was widely known for his association with the St. Louis television industry.

He was local sales manager for KDNL-TV Channel 30 for the past three years and held the same position for the previous 15 years with KPLR-TV Channel 11.

Prior to joining the KPLR-TV staff, Mr. Kirchoff was employed in the family business, a grocery store owned by his parents, Mrs. Thomas Kirchoff, who survives, and the late John Kirchoff.

Mr. Kirchoff was born in Granite City and attended local public schools. He was a graduate of Westminster College in Fulton, Mo.

Liver transplant is boon to GC patient

For someone who left Madison County in no shape to try her hand at mountaineering, Mrs. Dorothy Henderson feels she scaled Pike's Peak a thousand times only a few days after her arrival in Denver.

The famed peak was visible through a window in a room at the University of Colorado Medical Center, where she occupied a hospital bed while awaiting a rare, complicated operation that promised no guarantees. But the former local patient received a liver transplant and is on the way back to health.

Eight months after departing the Midwest on a stretcher, Mrs. Henderson returned home on her feet and smiling, saying later, she was "one happy person to get back home." She resides in Alton.

The Denver trip was an alternative that offered the most hope of stabilizing her health, which was impaired by a rare disease called "erosing cholangitis," an inflammation and blockage of the bile ducts.

Dr. Alvin R. Brown, St. Elizabeth Hospital (Granite City) gastroenterologist, arranged the operation with Denver officials.

"Mrs. Henderson is in guarded condition now. If we take care of the present problems and there is no infection, then her chances are fairly reasonable over the short haul," Dr. Brown said.

"Two-thirds of these patients were dying — until two years ago. Now, there are survivors exceeding eight years," he emphasized.

Mrs. Henderson says she "feels pretty good." The pain has gone. And, although she gets tired of walking, she can do so without the aid of a cane.

She doesn't feel that her life is especially restricted, and the only one thing she's concerned about is her weight. Medication is causing some swelling, she explained.

Mrs. Henderson has been battling the liver problem since 1972, when it was diagnosed as such at the University of Illinois Medical Center. She underwent surgeries there over a four-year period.

"When I first found out, I felt I was being punished by God. Why me—a liver problem?" she recalled thinking.

After becoming acquainted with Dr. Brown, Mrs. Henderson read the available material about liver transplants — a scant few pages — which included an article by Dr. Stanzel, the physician who would later assist during her surgery.

After much thought and many prayers, she left here Feb. 14. During her wait at the university, she kept herself busy with craftwork, crossword puzzles, some drawing and out-trips.

"Place mats, pot holders and coasters covered both beds like bedspreads," Mrs. Henderson laughed. She is teaching others the craft now.

At times, she doubted whether she should proceed with the whole plan. But familial support — and encouragement from other patient-friends, especially Vernon Sphinx — kept her from despair, she said.

Mrs. Henderson remembered the eve of her surgery, beginning with a telephone call at 12:30 p.m. on March 10 — her brother's birthday.

Then, eight doctors, including a female surgeon, gathered around her bed, reporting that a donor had been found.

"I got nervous and thought, 'I'm not going to surgery,'" Mrs. Henderson said. "I called my oldest sister, my mother, my brother in California, and my uncle in Chicago. And I called my sister again without realizing I'd already called her."

"I went into the bathroom to stall for time. I recited the 23rd Psalm for 15 to 20 minutes," she added.

At 4 a.m., the surgery began. She remembered being so excited that a given shot had no effect, and a following shot put her "out, but I could still hear talking."

In a record 10 hours time, Mrs. Henderson's surgery was completed. For an adult, normal time of this surgery is 18 to 28 hours.

The organ donor was a 17-year-old boy killed in a motorcycle accident. She recalled a touching encounter with the boy's grandmother after the woman saw Mrs. Henderson on television.

The grandmother visited her and, when Mrs. Henderson regained strength, the two met for dinner at a restaurant.

Since her arrival home, Mrs. Henderson's time has been occupied by her two children, ages eight and 12, in addition to visiting relatives and friends.

Though she is on medication to suppress rejection and will need to return to Colorado in a couple of months, Mrs. Henderson has had a change of spirit.

She is organizing a conference of doctors, including Dr. Stanzel, to speak about liver diseases and the help available for persons faced with such threatening illnesses.

"You can't just give up, saying you're getting old anyway and are going to die," the 32-year-old woman concluded.

MRS. DOROTHY HENDERSON. She is recuperating from a rare liver transplant and the equally rare sclerosing cholangitis ailment.

Thompson seeks more funds to fight child abuse; neglect

Governor James R. Thompson unveiled a plan Thursday to seek General Assembly approval in November for $5.3 million more than is already budgeted for the 1978-79 fiscal year to help children who are being abused or neglected.

He said the added funds could allow the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services to provide better assistance in child abuse or neglect cases by moving toward two goals:

1. Being able to respond to each child abuse or neglect report within 24 hours. That timetable is met in only 35 percent of the reported cases now in Cook County. Key to achievement of the goal would be the hiring of up to 300 qualified new caseworkers to investigate the increased number of reports, Thompson said.

2. Achieving a case-to-caseworker ratio of no more than 40 to 1 statewide. Some caseworkers carry as many as 100 cases. Whenever possible, followup services are to be purchased from social service agencies in the private sector, including counseling to abusive or neglectful parents.

Annex to be improved for Head Start classes

Madison School Board Member Elvers Johnson, at the board's meeting Thursday evening, accused the City of Madison of "splitting hairs" in regard to an inspection of the Dunbar School Annex made by John Dutko, city building inspector, and Curtis King, assistant building inspector.

The Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission, headquartered in Godfrey, will use the annex here for a year to conduct a Head Start program serving 35 to 60 pre-school children.

The discussion came about when Johnson saw a copy of an inspection report addressed to Edward Schenk, EOC director.

In addressing School Supt. John Falchett, Johnson said, "Why am I just now finding out about this inspection? The city should have informed the board rather than getting overly involved."

"Somebody is splitting hairs. The city has made no other inspection of this sort. Why didn't I know about it until this meeting?"

Board Member Paul Bargiel explained that under the city zoning ordinances, adopted three years ago, anytime a home or building is sold or—as in the case of EOC—rented to someone, an inspection is made.

It was further noted that this is done as a safety measure and to insure adequate housing and building standards throughout the city. This is the first time that the school has rented a building to anyone since the adoption of the building code.

Palech related, "The city contacted the board office before the inspection and I have talked with the city officials about the building. The inspection letter does not really affect us. It was written to Schenk and he will respond."

"The EOC will have the wiring replaced to meet the standards and see that at least one window in each room opens so the children can get out in case of an emergency," the superintendent informed the board.

The board accepted the resignation, effective Oct. 6, of William Campbell, and declined an assistant football coach until the season is over.

It was asked whether David Hodges will be the assistant varsity basketball coach for 1978-79. Board members said he has not informed them that he is interested. The answer given was that Hodges still has to be approved by the state and his teaching certificate may need updating.

The board tabled hiring a custodian for Dunbar and instructed the administration to have substitute custodians fill the position for the time.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Fran Brozman, a school social worker who is moving to Kansas City. Her husband has been transferred there.

A letter praising the conduct of the MHS football team at the game with Bushnell-Prairie City, received from Jerry Arthur, the Bushnell principal, was read. It was noted in the minutes that the Madison board appreciates the letter—and the behavior of the MHS team.

The Granite City Board of Appeals and Plan Commission will meet this week to consider several zoning requests.

The Board of Appeals will meet at 1:15 p.m. Wednesday to consider the request of Gary Daily, 221 Wilson Park Lane, to construct an attached garage three feet from the side property line in an R-2 single-family residential district.

The Plan Commission will meet Thursday at 1:15 p.m. to consider three requests. Nick Petrillo, representing the Italian-American Club in the 3000 block of Sinclair Avenue is requesting an R-5 classification, rather than the current R-2, for the future construction of a clubhouse.

Dr. John Galbreath is asking the board for C-1 commercial zoning at 1534 Johnson Road, rather than the current R-2, to operate a chiropractic office.

The Plan Commission also will be requested to consider an annexation request for 2316 Gary Ave., in the Gorbé subdivision.

Both boards make recommendations to the Granite City Council, which will take final action on the requests at its Oct. 17 meeting.

The Board of Appeals and Plan Commission meet at the city office building at 2301 Adams St.

building prior to the signing of final sale documents.

John Boushard, city building inspector, said he placed several red "condemned" notices on the house during the past several weeks, the last time on Sunday, Oct. 1.

None of the notices were signed or dated. Neither the City Council nor the city attorney had taken any official action to have the dwelling condemned.

Cagle said Boushard checked some of the repair work done by the Wades and then told them of several more changes that would be necessary before they could move in.

Boushard offered the Wades some of his property for the Wades to rent while the work continued, but they declined. Several telecasts described the 1200 block of Robin as the only block in Venice lacking black families. Although many blocks are bi-racial, there are several blocks that have no black residents.

Local, state

Emphasis also was given in broadcasts to a contention that the Wades would have been the first black family to move into the white (southern) area of Venice. North Venice is black. As noted earlier, many blacks reside in South Venice and there have been pleasant contacts between various racial and ethnic groups.

Electrical wiring prior to the start of renovation had been stapled to the walls in the house, and some ceiling plaster had fallen. Floors and walls were classes as inadequate, and wooden stairway railings were loose, authorities said.

A fence damaged last week also had suffered earlier damage. The roof was described as having leaks, and the flue was said to be in need of replacement. Some persons plan to discuss the fire at tomorrow's 7:30 p.m. Venice City Council ## meeting and urge a thorough investigation. They include the Wades, Cagle and Williams.

Williams said he hopes to learn why, if condemnation was necessary, notices weren't posted when a family moved out in July. A "for sale" sign was reported to have been displayed. The Wades wanted the house to provide more room for them and their three children, aged 11, eight and six.

Cagle believes a volatile liquid may have been used to set the house afire Saturday. Assistant Fire Chief Willie Dumas attributes the Wednesday fire also to some type of fluid. Earlier last week, the Wades had found vandalism, including broken windows and fence pickets.

Saturday's fire was reported by the Robertsons, who were awakened by their pet dog's barking.

Kirchoff dies

Mr. Kirchoff was a former member of committees of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, regional planning body.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Kirchoff; one daughter, Miss Victoria Kirchoff, a student at Northwestern University at Evanston; one sister, Mrs. Matthew (Victoria) Maier of Frontenac, Mo.; and his mother, Mrs. Tomasa Kirchoff of Granite City.

Arrangements for the funeral are listed in today's obituary column.

Savings Bank and a trustee of Sunset Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Kirchoff was active in his church, the Holy Trinity Bulgarian Eastern Orthodox Church, 1300 Grand Ave., Madison, where services are being held at 1 p.m. today.

He also was an active member of several service and professional groups, including the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, Granite City Evening Kiwanis, Advertising Club of St. Louis and the Central Committee of the Macedonian Patriotic Organization.

COLUMBUS DAY

October 9th reminds us of our courageous ancestor who added new real estate, new riches and a new dimension to the known world.

It also reminds us that in 1978 anyone can discover that their future holds a greater promise if they spend a little less than they make.

Today, it takes a genuine effort and some real courage to save money, but it pays off in peace of mind, self respect and security in the future. Come save with us.

Reading emphasized

The State Board of Education last week joined Governor James Thompson in declaring October as Reading Is Fundamental Month in Illinois.

State Superintendent of Education Joseph M. Cronin said, "Reading Is Fundamental encompasses the importance of learning and stresses improving the quality of life through reading. It seeks to increase a child's motivation to learn."

Cronin added that the reading plan "creates a positive partnership with the schools by involving parents and community groups."

State Board Chairman Jack Witkovsky said, "The State Board of Education believes that every school should prepare its students to enter the job market with the ability to read and communicate. Reading Is Fundamental does just that."

Both Cronin and Witkovsky are urging school districts to establish Reading Is Fundamental programs in their areas.

During 1978, more than 90 Reading Is Fundamental projects were operating in Illinois, distributing 400,000 books to over 100,000 children.

Reading Is Fundamental was founded in 1966 as an experiment designed to motivate children to read. The program now operates in 50 states and distributes more than five million paperback books to over a million children at all socioeconomic levels.

Dr. Cronin said that for further information on establishing a Reading Is Fundamental program, Quad-Cityans may contact Arnette Rauschel, Coordinator, Reading Is Fundamental, Program Planning and Development, State Board of Education, Illinois Office of Education, 100 N. 1st St., Springfield, Ill. 62777.

38 chemistry teachers give, receive homework

Thirty-eight area high school chemistry teachers have returned to the classroom as students in a new continuing education program in science at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Under a grant from the National Science Foundation, the teachers will learn more chemistry to take back to the classroom and will serve as channels of communication between the high school and the college teacher.

J. Edmund White, SIUE professor of chemistry and project director, said the Pre-College Teacher Development in Science Program is a series of five minicourses designed to meet the teachers' needs and schedules. Each class meets one night a week for a month for one quarter hour of credit.

An orientation session for all students and faculty involved in the program, including Harold Gebhardt and James R. Harsh of GCHS North, Calvin J. Butts of Venice High and David A. McClain and Kenneth H. Gattung of the GCHS South faculty, was held this week.

The first course, origins of elements, molecules and the earth's atmosphere, is scheduled Oct. 3-4 but other teachers interested in the program can join the second class, hazardous substances, beginning Nov. 8. Space is still available in all courses, White said.

Beginning the winter and spring quarters, classes will continue with acid-base theories, chemistry of air pollution, and problem solving in the physical sciences.

Each minicourse is taught by members of the chemistry department who are specialists in the subject fields.

Also, a one-week short course, modern organic chemistry, will be offered in June for three credit hours.

All students selected for the program receive travel and, book allowances and pay no tuition. Preference is given to teachers with undergraduate degrees outside chemistry. Gebhardt lives at 2200 Clinton Drive, Harsh at 1705 Fifth St., Madison, Butts in Collinsville, McClain at 2260 Woodlawn Ave. and Gattung at 2161 Lynch Ave.

'The Doctor in Spite of Himself' is GCHS North Homecoming play

Moliere's "The Doctor in Spite of Himself" will be the Granite City High School North Fall Festival Homecoming play.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 18 and 19, in the auditorium located at GCHS South.

Tickets will be on sale during the lunch periods in North cafeteria, beginning Tuesday, Oct. 16.

Tickets purchased in advance are $1.50 for students and $2 for adults; at the door tickets will be $2 for students and $2.50 for adults. School activity tickets cannot be used for this play.

The cast is as follows: Sganarelle, a woodcuter by Mark Belleville; Martine, his wife by Lynda Loftus; Robert, a neighbor by Steve Carr; Geronte, a wealthy man by Bob Slate; Valere, servant to Geronte by Eric Disney; Lucas, servant to Geronte by Bill Broadwater.

Jackeline, Lucas' wife by Beth Sobolewski; Lucinde, Geronte's daughter by Lisa Thompson; Leandre, in love with Lucinde by John Hartung; Thibaut, an old man by George Compton; Perrin, his son by Rudy Votoupal; Dorene, a maid and friend to Lucinde by Lisa Randall; and Mariane, a maid and friend to Lucinde by Lia Salem.

"The Doctor in Spite of Himself" is a famous farce by the greatest of French dramatists, Moliere. Sganarelle has to be beaten before he will acknowledge that he is a doctor, which he is not. He then works apparently miraculous cures. Sganarelle has been beating his shrewish wife, Martine, who probably deserves it. Now, to get even, Martine passes her husband off to Lucas and Valere as a great doctor, but warns them that he has his eccentricities and doublets will have to be beaten before he admits his great power as a physician.

So it is against his will, but in self-defense, that Sganarelle is taken to the house of Geronte to cure Geronte's daughter, Lucinde, of a sudden affliction. Perceiving that the only cure for Lucinde is Leandre, whom she loves, Sganarelle disguises Leandre as an apothecary and enables the two to elope.

However, the ruse is discovered, and Sganarelle is in danger of losing his head. Then, luckily, Leandre's uncle dies, leaving his fortune to Leandre, thus making him a suitable husband for Lucinde and saving Sganarelle's neck.

The play is under the direction of Dr. Goni Michaeloff, speech department chairman at North.

It is suggested by Dr. Michaeloff that persons wishing tickets purchase them early, as they are being sold on a first-come, first-served basis and the homecoming plays usually are sold out.

STUDYING DETAILS of arrangements to extend ambulance service to Eagle Park Acres are Madison Police Chief Donald Bridick, left, and Venice Township Supervisor Christ Pashoff. The service will be provided by the Granite City Ambulance Service under a program requiring all calls from Eagle Park to clear through the Madison Police Department. As a result, Venice Township will sign an agreement guaranteeing payment of ambulance calls within the township.

Family preservation to be institute topic

Concern for retention of the family as the primary unit of society will be the focus of several of the sessions of the eighth annual Mental Health Institute scheduled in Belleville Thursday and Friday.

The institute is sponsored jointly by the St. Clair County Community Mental Health Board; St. Louis University Department of Psychiatry; Continuing Medical Education; and the Office of Continuing Education at McKendree College, Lebanon.

There will be sessions on medical uses of hypnosis; marriage and family therapy; practical parenting for the modern family; family support units; parents' rights and due process; service needs of families involved in incest; dealing with today's teenage sexuality, and a sexual abuse seminar among others.

"A House in the Woods," a film about a family "caught in the bewildering web of an emotional illness," will be shown at 2:30 p.m. Thursday. The film deals with mental illness in the home and the family coping ability.

The crisis in the drama seeks to bring understanding of the depressive illness that threatens to destroy the family. Depressive illness in ranked as the most common of all psychiatric disturbances. Physicians, educators and psychologists from throughout Illinois, Missouri and the nation will be presenters at the institute. It is open to students, professionals and the general public.

Continuing education units and continuing medical education units will be awarded to qualified persons. A fee of $32 admits to all workshops, including both luncheons and a mental health ball Thursday evening. Student rates are lower.

Institute officials said workshop sessions are filling rapidly. Registration information may be obtained at 397-4741 or 397-8598.

Architect fees approved

The Madison City Council Tuesday night approved paying General Design Co. of Greenville a $3,000 retainer toward their fee for designing the new Madison Shopping Center.

The basic architects fee is $15,750 plus an additional $3,700 for special design work, according to Mayor Mike Sasyk. This money will come from a Community Development grant of $13,000.

The designers have met with prospective business operators who will locate in the center, which will have an "Alpine" theme.

Fourth Ward Alderman Mike Sikora said, "I wish there was some way we could convince our people not to burn leaves on our nice asphalt streets. This ruins them. There is a lot of time, work, and money invested in these streets and perhaps the other aldermen could talk to the people so they don't ruin the alleys or the streets that have been asphalted."

It was announced that the city will not purchase property at 321-327 Madison Ave., but would continue legal procedures to get the property condemned.

City officials have been working for several months trying to get the owners of the property to either tear it down or remodel.

Mayor Sasyk also announced that the premiums on city insurance for employees would not be raised. The cost is $89 for family coverage and $33 for individuals.

An application for a beauty shop was referred to the zoning board for study and recommendation.

Purses ransacked

Three women's purses left in a nursery at the Niedringhaus Methodist Church following a wedding were ransacked.

Toni Eck, 3817B Village Lane, told officers $50 was taken from her purse. The two other women were to report later if they had losses.

with the FBI to control arson head on as a major activity of organized crime syndicates. LEAA can help mend the social fabric of our nation's cities by keeping their inner-cities safe from the arsonist's torch.

LEAA, a Justice Department agency, provides federal funds to assist local law enforcement agencies in dealing with serious criminal problems.

During the subcommittee hearings, "torches" and insurance adjusters described how easy it was to get away with setting fire to commercial and residential buildings and to defraud insurance companies for vast sums of money.

They testified that law enforcement agencies woefully lack the training and professional expertise to deal with organized crime syndicates which are increasingly turning to arson-for-profit. Local-level law enforcement officials confirmed this in their testimony, and cited numerous instances where LEAA refused to provide the financial assistance that would enable them to apprehend the "torches."

Experts estimate arson is growing at the rate of 25 percent a year and costing insurance companies $2 billion annually. Approximately 1,000 lives a year are lost in arson fires.

On the recommendation of the chief federal organized crime strike force attorney on the West Coast, the San Jose police chief requested an LEAA grant for an area-wide arson intelligence system. He was awarded, under evidence presented to the subcommittee showed.

When the chief Houston arson investigator asked LEAA for assistance in funding a laboratory to speed up analysis of suspected flammable materials, to avoid an 18-month delay in obtaining chemical readouts, he was told to forget it. The chief fire marshal in Massachusetts sought LEAA funds to start up several arson tasks forces in counties with a high incidence of arson. He was told his agency was ineligible because arson was not a major priority in that state.

Arson laboratory chemists in Massachusetts, having failed to obtain LEAA funds for equipment, dug into their own pockets to pay for needed test tubes to meet deadlines on chemical analysis of materials removed from fire scenes. They were concerned that prosecutions would be lost because of the delays, testimony showed.

After being presented with this information, Gregg, who said he had no idea of the degree of frustration felt by local arson officials, told Percy in the hearings: "We consider it a serious problem and we certainly are giving it increased priority within the agency." He promised them to take the action with the Sen. Percy disclosed today.

Percy has directed the subcommittee staff to monitor implementation of the new enforcement priority directives from both the FBI and LEAA.

College fair this weekend

The National College Fair will be held on Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m., and on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Cervantes Convention and Exhibition Center.

Ten convention center is located at 801 Delmar Boulevard, St. Louis. Last year, 4,500 people attended the free event, including many Quad-City young people and parents.

With about 200 post-secondary institutions from around the country participating, the fair offers an opportunity to gather a considerable amount of basic information about colleges and the programs they offer. Representatives of colleges, universities, and trade and technical schools will be available to explain their programs, facilities, entrance requirements and costs.

The fair offers other services to acquaint the prospective student of any age with ways to find the college or university which best suits his or her needs.

Group financial aid sessions will be held every half-hour, followed by question-and-answer periods.

Many National College Fair visitors make the individual information center one of their first stops. Here they can sit down with a counselor on a one-to-one basis and ask questions about college entrance requirements, costs, majors, programs, financial aid and careers. Information for veterans also will be available.

Representatives of the American College Testing Program (ACT) and the College Board will discuss admissions testing programs, services and test dates.

The free National College Fair, distributed at the fair, is prepared to guide visitors to the services and institutions represented there.

The floor plan inside shows where each institution and service is located. Lists and descriptions of the institutions at the fair are given, along with other information.

Niedringhaus detours begin

During a four-week shutdown of the Niedringhaus Avenue railroad grade crossing to allow the widening and resurfacing of the crossing and installation of automatic signals, detour routes will be used. The project started today.

For traffic in the downtown area, 19th Street and Rock Road will be used to get to West Granite and also to Route 3. Traffic on Route 3 will be directed onto Rock Road and 19th Street, but cars can also take the West 20th Street exit from Route 3.

No tractor-trailer traffic will be allowed on West 20th Street due to the five-ton load limit on the street.

Work by the Terminal Railroad Association, which began this morning, will take about three weeks with the additional week of the shutdown to allow the city to resurface and widen Niedringhaus Avenue for one-half block on each side of the tracks.

Brief power outages here

Some Granite City residents who awoke early Sunday noticed power in their homes was interrupted three times between 6:30 and 6:35 a.m., for several seconds each time.

A spokesman for Illinois Power Co. said a combination of suspended particles in the air and moisture during a heavy fog combined to short-circuit a main substation, causing a "flash over" of electricity between circuits.

Power to the northeast section of the city was cut off until the circuit recycled, a matter of only a few seconds each time, the spokesman said.

Electric clocks today should reflect less than one-half minute of lost time to the areas served by that substation, he explained.

Puncture, slash tires in Venice

Three instances of tires being slashed or punctured with an ice pick were reported Saturday to Venice police.

Marie Adviento, East St. Louis, said four rock-type punctures were found in one tire and three in each of two other tires while the vehicle was parked at the Robin's Nest, 113 Slough Road, Venice.

Wayne Manson, 623 Salvator Ave., said an ice pick probably was used to cut four tires on his auto while it was parked at Jones Dorothy White, 172 Viola Homes, said all four tires were cut on her 1976 Firebird, parked near the dwelling.

North homecoming week Oct. 16-21

With homecoming almost a month earlier than last year at Granite City High School North students, teachers and administrators are preparing for a week of fast-moving activities.

The North homecoming will begin Monday, Oct. 16, and end Saturday, Oct. 21.

The speech department began rehearsals for the homecoming play on Aug. 31.

The play, "The Doctor in Spite of Himself," will be presented at 8 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 18 and 19, in the auditorium at South.

Following the performance, one girl and one boy from the homecoming court will be presented as king and queen.

Girls who are members of the court are Tammy Luchini, Mary Thomas, Robyn Johnson, Karen Myracle, Lisa Henderson, Lisa Sobol, Donna

Lindsay, Denise St. Ivany and Dana Buer.

Boys are Todd Reecer, Dave Abbott, Rich Awallt, Tim Tingley, Chris Rogenski, Roberto Cuevas, Mike Painter, Tom Genco and Scott Robertson.

The homecoming court members are selected by the senior class, and the entire student body votes for the king and queen.

Announcement of the queen and king is kept secret until after the presentation of the court at the play.

On Friday, Oct. 20, the homecoming parade at 1:45 p.m. will be followed by a homecoming dance at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Stadium here against Belleville Althoff.

The traditional football game will take place Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in Memorial Stadium here against Belleville Althoff.

Truancy program studied in Madison

A new policy in handling truancy problems in Madison is being considered by the Madison School Board, and parents allowing truancy by children may face fines and court action.

The Madison School Board at its Thursday meeting discussed entering into an agreement with Co-ordinated Youth Services as a means for the district.

Illinois law provides for the employment of truant officers. It was noted that where parents knowingly permit children to be absent from school, CYS in the Granite City district has signed complaints and the parents who were found guilty have been fined.

According to CYS and the board, it appears there may be a direct relationship between truancy and juvenile delinquency.

A fee of $3,000 for nine months would be charged by CYS.

The Madison School District currently has 22 youths in an Alternate Education Program (AEP) with CYS. According to Wade James, assistant superintendent of schools, the program is proving helpful.

James told the board there are 25 to 40 habitual truants in Madison.

Basic reasons a youth is put into the CYS alternative program according to James, are inability to cope with the regular school structure, inadequate family structure and inability to function in the community.

James said, "An additional change in the individual is the most important objective of CYS. More structure can be added."

"CYS personnel realize that, in most cases, we are dealing with students on whom the school, family and other community agencies have 'given up' and, in return, the student has given up on the agencies and families."

"We are attempting to help a young man, a young lady, in CYS-AEP to be successful. Under the layer of failures, frustrations and hostility is a person seeking acceptance and success."

James gave out printed material on CYS programs and also a copy of a proposed contract, should the board decide to use CYS as truant officers.

Board President Sam Dymas thanked James for the CYS presentation and asked the board to study the matter between now and the next meeting.

Enrollment down in 87 Illinois counties

Declining enrollment continues to be a problem in Illinois public schools, grades K-12, according to a report presented at the State Board of Education meeting Thursday.

Since the peak enrollment period of 1971-72, Illinois public school total enrollment in kindergarten through 12th grade has shown a steady decline, as has been the trend nationwide.

The 1977-78 K-12 enrollment in Illinois shows a decline of 8.7 percent since 1971-72. The 1977-78 enrollment is 56,000 students less than the number in the previous year.

State Superintendent of Education Joseph M. Cronin described the situation as a "seesaw effect."

We will see an increase in elementary school population in the later 1980s," he forecast. "At the same time, there will be a decrease in high school enrollment that reflects previous elementary grade decreases."

Enrollment figures reveal that 87 Illinois counties have shown an overall decline since the 1971-72 peak year, while 15 counties registered increases.

Among counties showing the largest enrollment increases are Johnson, Massac, Kendall, Pope, Will and McHenry.

Counties experiencing heaviest enrollment declines include Cook, Madison, Champaign, Ford, Livingston, Logan, Rock Island, Stark, Sangamon and Winnebago.

Elementary school enrollment reached a record high of 1,684,132 in 1970-71, he reported at 5:40 a.m. Friday.

then began steadily to decline. The high school population reached its peak in 1975-76. However, beginning in 1977-78, high school enrollment began a sustained decline which is expected to continue to 1990-91.

The continued loss of students in Illinois is due primarily to a steady decline in the number of live births.

Also contributing to the loss is the out-of-state migration of an estimated 2.4 percent of Illinois' population, or approximately 266,000 from April 1970 to July 1974.

In other action at the meeting, the State Board of Education reaffirmed its position of support for the proposed Illinois Constitutional amendment to retain the corporate personal property tax on a temporary basis.

Without the amendment, the tax would be eliminated on Jan. 1, 1979, without replacement revenue sources having been identified.

The tax generates substantial funds for schools, amounting to approximately $400 million in 1980 if it is retained.

It was pointed out that while enrollments have declined in Illinois schools, the rate of inflation has been even greater, leading to increased school costs.

Hospice meet next Monday at hospital

Organization details to establish a Hospice program to serve this area and other parts of Madison County will be discussed in a meeting to be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 16, in the cafeteria at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Hospice is an expanding program to provide home care and medical treatment of terminally ill patients. The countrywide program proposed here would be on an outpatient basis only.

Representatives of medical, civic, governmental and social fields are scheduled to attend the meeting.

A number of preliminary discussions of the Hospice program have been held in recent months, resulting in a decision to establish such a program in Madison County.

Auto, batteries stolen from lot

One auto was stolen and batteries were taken from two other vehicles while the owners were at the Nameoki Bingo Center, 3400 Nameoki Road, last week.

All three incidents were reported at 10:20 p.m. Wednesday.

Stolen from the lot was a brown vinyl over pale yellow 1977 Mercury Marquis, belonging to Donna Joar of Hazelwood, Mo.

A $40 battery was removed from the auto of Ruth M. Bimston, St. Louis. Witnesses reported seeing a car occupied by four people near the vehicle a short time earlier.

Roy Foley, 447 Lincoln Ave., Venice, said a 12-volt battery was stolen from his car while he was in the center.

GC will advertise for street dept. mechanic

Granite City council members decided last week to advertise for a qualified mechanic for the city street department after Alderman Clyde Boyd, chairman of the street and alley committee, told the council that the street department is in "desperate" straits for another mechanic.

Applicants for the job will be hired on the basis of specifications drawn up when efforts were made to employ a mechanic through the Teamsters union. Lionel Portell said the union sent a man to the department but that he was not qualified.

"We have $500,000 to a million dollars worth of equipment and it has to be maintained," Boyd said. Much of the equipment is of the heavy type, he noted.

Alderman Paul Bowler suggested that it might be better if the city were to contract with a garage or automotive company to handle repairs and maintenance of city equipment, but Alderman Ronald Coleman said that while such a practice was used years ago, today's equipment is so much heavier than it used to be that it probably would be difficult to make such an arrangement.

"We need a man with hydraulic and diesel engine knowledge, and if he meets the specifications, he is going to have to be a real mechanic," Coleman noted.

Bowler raised the question of street department procedure in answering the telephone at the lunch hour and said he had received a complaint from a resident who said someone at the office hung up the phone on him after making a smart remark.

Portell said that under the union agreements the men work from 7:30 until 11:30 a.m. and are at lunch until 12:30 p.m.

Several aldermen expressed surprise that there was no permanent arrangement for answering the telephone during the lunch hour.

Boyd said he had not been aware of that problem but that he believed something can be worked out.

Portell said that he had applied for a Manpower employee to man the office phones, but that he has heard nothing from it.

STEAL CHECK, CASH

A $204 social security check and $80 cash were stolen from the purse of Mrs. Sandra Ponder, 1604 Kirkpatrick Homes, at her home, she reported last week.

"We need Rep. Steele back in Springfield to help fight to make Illinois a place where new industry is welcome and new jobs are created. And the taxpayers need him to watch over their tax dollars," Ryan concluded. Many Quad-Cityans attended the gathering.

House leader praises Rep. Steele for cost curbs, jobs, highway work

House GOP Leader George Ryan, R-Ill., appearing at the Lewis and Clark Restaurant in East Alton Wednesday, urged the reelection of 6th District Republican Representative Everett G. Steele of Glen Carbon.

Ryan said Steele, now serving his second term, "is certainly the best friend the taxpayers of the district have in Springfield."

The GOP leader praised Steele for his support of "the successful effort to the Thompson administration to balance the state's budget and avoid a tax increase."

"Everett Steele has been extremely careful how he has voted to spend the taxpayers' hard-earned money."

"As a respected member of the powerful House Appropriations Committee, he has stood up against the big spenders and has kept his commitment to a balanced budget."

Ryan noted that Steele is also a member of the House Transportation Committee.

"Now in his third year as a member of the Transportation Committee, Rep. Steele has worked to see the 6th District receive its fair share — and then some — of state highway improvements."

In remarks presented at a luncheon boosting Steele, Ryan noted that Steele has strongly backed a GOP program to create jobs in private industry by giving new businesses incentives to locate plants in Illinois.

"Everett Steele has worked for legislation creating new permanent jobs in private industry in Illinois. He strongly believes that people need permanent jobs not government-sponsored work programs."

"In this session of the General Assembly, he has helped push for House approval of legislation creating a free job training program for new and expanding industry for Illinois.

"While Democratic partisanship blocked approval of the program in the State Senate, the outlook for gaining legislative approval of the measure will be brighter in January."

Engineers offer 91 scholarships

The National Society of Professional Engineers is making available 91 grants and scholarships to aid high school seniors interested in pursuing engineering careers. Jeffrey Malanowski, area chairman of the nationwide scholarship program, has announced.

Students will be selected for the awards on the basis of academic standing, participation in extracurricular activities, leadership, character, self-reliance, comments of teachers and administrators, and financial need.

NSPE scholarships are provided with the cooperation of 31 companies and educational institutions. Recipients receive awards of $1,000 to $4,000, with some full scholarships.

To be eligible for the awards, a student must be a high school senior ranking in the top quarter of his or her graduating class, plan to enroll in a college or university with an engineering curriculum approved by the Engineers Council for Professional Development (the profession's accreditation body), and be a U.S. citizen or plan to become a naturalized citizen.

Students must submit scholarship applications by Dec. 15; national winners will be selected in March.

For applications and more information on the NSPE scholarship program, Quad-Cityans may contact Malanowski at the Monsanto Co., Sauget, Ill., or a high school guidance counselor.

... about your Social Security

Earnings records on file

The record of earnings covered by social security for over 170 million men, women and children are kept at Social Security Headquarters, each identified by that person's name and social security number. John Nathan, social security district manager in East St. Louis, said today:

"A person's earnings record is important. That record will be checked when a person applies for benefits to determine the amount of benefits," he added. "Because there is a limited time in which errors can be corrected, people should check their record every three years or so. A free postcard form for this purpose can be obtained at any social security office."

"If a person's own records do not agree with the amount reported, he or she should call statement, he or she should call the social security office. Give the social security number, the periods of employment involved, wages paid in each period, and the employer's name and address.

"If Forms W-2, pay slips, or other proofs of unreported wages are available, they should be included."

A person's earnings record does not show the amount of taxes he or she paid. It shows only the amount of earnings reported. Benefits are figured from the amount of earnings reported, not from the amount of taxes paid.

Nathan said it is not possible to pay in extra taxes with the idea of getting higher benefits later on. He concluded:

"For more information about earnings records, or about any aspect of social security, The telephone number is 274-4100 or toll-free Enterprise 1-855.

Man is charged following fight

Officers went to the 2400 block of Logan Avenue at 7 p.m. Wednesday, where two men allegedly were fighting and one man ran to a house asking the resident to call police.

Police allege the same men were involved in a fight earlier in the night at a nearby cafe.

Both men were arrested, but enroute to the station one man apparently suffered some form of seizure and was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital.

He was treated for abrasions to the back and then transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis, for treatment of a head trauma, police said.

Darrell Schrader, 23, of 2027 Bryan Ave., was charged with disorderly conduct following the incident. He was released from custody on payment of a $35 cash bond at 8 p.m.

The arrest ticket for the second man has not yet been issued due to his condition.

Connole, assistant curriculum director for Madison School District; John Palchett and Robert Vickers, superintendents of Madison and Venice School Districts, respectively.

Fine Arts Council busy in M-V area

Appreciation of fine arts in the Venice and Madison school district is being stimulated by the Venice-Madison Fine Arts Council which is planning programs for the schools throughout the year.

At a meeting Thursday the committee reviewed activities of the two districts last week during "Arts in Illinois Week."

Venice students in the French and art classes traveled to the St. Louis Art Museum to view the works of "Monet at Giverny."

Seventh graders in Venice visited the St. Louis Art Museum of Science and Natural History to view a special exhibit about George Washington Carver.

In Madison, special emphasis in the Arts and Humanities classes were given to appreciation of fine arts. Students are developing sketches for a mural to be painted in the high school.

Jack Friedman, a Madison businessman, lectured on art to MHS students. Friedman is an accomplished painter.

Several students from the Dunbar school also viewed the "Monet" exhibit.

Fourth grade students from both districts will attend a "Young People's Concert" at Powell Symphony Hall. These students will receive a pre-concert lecture by a graduate music student from Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville before attending the concert.

Three concerts are being planned to be held in the local schools by the St. Louis chapter of Young Audiences, Inc. The only nationwide organization whose sole purpose is to provide in-school performing arts programs for children.

The Venice-Madison Fine Arts Council has been in existence since 1969.

Present officers are Mrs. Margaret Lee, president; Mable Dandridge, vice president, and Bernadine Wiedner, secretary-treasurer. Persons interested in promoting the fine arts are welcome to join the council and further information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Lee at 452-3122, a spokesman said.

Radio Shack to add telephone specialty units

Radio Shack, nationwide consumer electronics store chain, has announced plans to add a telephone specialty product department to 200 of its stores.

The new telephone departments, located primarily in Radio Shack stores in major shopping malls throughout the country, will carry a complete assortment of name-brand telephone products and accessories in addition to its proprietary line.

According to Radio Shack President Lewis Kornfeld, the new telephone departments are expected to provide "additional business without additional promotional cost or personnel."

The decision to establish the telephone specialty departments was based on the company's favorable experience with The Telephone Booth, its test store in Fort Worth.

Tall cut for bluegrass

By WAYNE B. SEIFERT

Area Horticulture Adviser

Fall cutting is still the No. 1 turf practice to promote density and spread.

The extra leaf surface allows extra food manufacture. All this surplus develops a family of underground shoots that creep into nearby bare spots.

How tall is tall cut? Three inches is maximum. Two-and-one-half is recommended by many grass experts as a compromise.

I think you will notice more grass, less weeds and maybe the feeling that your grass has become a deep carpet.

Mid-October is the time to plant tulips, narcissus, grape hyacinths, and other spring flowering bulbs.

A new planting will always give you the high quality so famous for these plants. But old plantings can do it too. Three year old plantings often produce even better show because the bulbs have split and produced two or three flowers.

Full sunlight and good drainage are among the keys to success in growing these flowers. Avoid planting spring flowering bulbs in shade areas or near trees. Shade, competition from trees, and drought will retard spring and summer growth and usually will prevent reblooming.

When economy is a factor, plan on planting small clusters of a single color. You'll be impressed with the performance of a 3, 5, or 7 bulbs planted in a clump.

If you plant several colors, never mix colors. It's okay to plant clusters of each color near each other, providing you leave 12 inches of space between each cluster.

You'll get your best effect if these bulbs are planted where you can view them at close range and in full sun.

Investment, ethical and genealogy fall classes

Continuing education non-credit programs will be offered throughout the fall quarter at SIUE through the Office of Conferences and Institutes (692-2650).

The class will meet for eight sessions in Room 2304 of Peck Classroom Building, from 6:30 to 8:20 p.m. The fee for the course is $5.

A five-session course in basic genealogy will be taught by Prof. Stanley Kimball. Participants will learn how to trace family roots, record data and use pedigree charts and family group sheets. The course begins Wednesday, Oct. 18, and will meet in Room 3311 of Peck Classroom Building from 7 to 9 p.m. Cost of the course, with textbook included, is $27.

Jane Millar, program development officer for the faculty's administrative staff, agency personnel, school district personnel and other grant seekers. The course will offer direction in strengthening grantmanship and proposal writing skills.

Topics include locating and qualifying sources of public and private funding, contacting and negotiating with potential grantmakers and proposal writing. The five-session course costs $15 and will meet in Room 3311 of Peck Classroom Building, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., beginning Monday, Oct. 16.

Pre-registration for all classes is necessary.

Differ on whether town road public or private

Quality Sand Co. purchased material for patching Lyndon road in Nameoki Township before Namoki Township Highway Commissioner Frank Mellicie made repairs to the road, which is used by Quality Sand trucks, company officials said Friday. Mellicie has said he understands it is a private road.

Leo Hayes, vice-president of the sand company, said his company has donated some materials for repair of portions of the road used by school buses.

William Nichols, a landowner in that area, believes the company should not have to purchase the patching materials, since the road is in the township. It was officially dedicated in 1960 by Charles Hanks, then the township's highway commissioner, Nichols said.

Nichols contended the sand company owns 67 acres of property purchased from a former road and gun club, and pays taxes both to the township and to the school district on that property.

The township's last highway commissioner, Albert Bell, researched the dedication of the road and then agreed to make repairs to it, since he felt it was a township road.

However, according to Nichols, Mellicie declined to repair the road and there have been threats to close it to the sand company by limiting the weight of trucks allowed on it.

Hayes said he is not certain of the roadway was ever officially dedicated, but said the company agreed to supply patching material for the portion used by school buses, with the understanding Mellicie's staff would do the work.

Nichols said Quality Sand supplied about six truckloads of hot patching material, which Mellicie then used to patch holes.

Hayes said his company frequently sells sand to Mellicie's department.

Nichols said he feels it is time Mellicie checked the records and found out that the township highway department is responsible for repairing the road, "even though there are not too many voters left out here."

Mellicie has said at township meetings that he believes the road belongs to Quality Sand and the township is not responsible for repairing it.

Harassment after county rape conviction—is alleged

A warrant issued Friday by Madison County State's Attorney Nicholas G. Byron charged harassment by Mrs. Emma Hudson, mother of one of two East St. Louisans convicted Thursday night of sexually assaulting a 24-year-old woman. The mother allegedly contacted a witness.

Albert Larry, a brother of the other convicted man, also was charged with harassment—of the victim as she was leaving the County Courthouse.

She had been abducted July 10 at the Orr-Weathers federal housing in East St. Louis and later was taken to Alton.

Gary Ellison, 25, the son of Mrs. Hudson, was convicted at 11 p.m. Thursday of rape, deviate assault, and unlawful restraint. Like Larry, 20, was found guilty of deviate sexual assault and was acquitted of rape.

Escaping from an East St. Louis police officer, the assaults were apprehended and the woman was freed at an Alton park.

Assistant State's Attorney Stephanie Robbins said authorities are investigating allegations of a bribe offer related to the trial testimony.

Mrs. Kessler dies at 76

Mrs. Josephine J. Kessler, 76, of 2808 Cayuga Ave., Ill. for two years, died at 2:18 a.m. Friday at Christian Northeast Hospital.

DELAY JOBBLESS BENEFITS The Illinois Bureau of Employment Security of the Illinois Department of Labor says federal unemployment benefits for 5,000 people in the state will be delayed for at least two weeks. BES Administrator C. Ross Thompson said lack of funding has caused the delay in benefits to former federal employees, ex-servicemen, former postal employees and those receiving benefits under the Trade Readjustment Act. He said all those affected will receive all benefits for which they are eligible, and checks will be mailed the same day funding is restored.

Late placement of some divorce cases in files

The divorce of James David Marler and Charlotte-Marie Marler, announced in Thursday's Press-Record, was granted two years ago, the former Mrs. Marler said today.

Courtroom officials are attempting to determine why some 1975 and early 1976 divorce cases have recently appeared for filing in the family division.

They normally should have been filed immediately after each divorce was granted, but a number of files do not appear among clerical records at that time.

Sound past basis for mutual understanding among Venice residents must not be forgotten during the present crisis

There is no way at this point to fully evaluate events occurring in the 1200 block of Robin Street, Venice, last week.

Circumstantial evidence and assumptions indicate that an unoccupied home being repaired by prospective block owners was destroyed by fire by someone who opposed their future residency in an all-white block. But this hasn't been factually determined as yet.

Certainly, anyone is convinced, an arsonist is responsible for the fire that consumed the frame dwelling.

All facts regarding the crime must be uncovered if citizens are to be able to put it into appropriate perspective and reach fully-informed conclusions.

While concern is justified, it would be tragic if such consternation leads to broadening of the problem or blocks the possibility of mutual understanding and sound relationships in the future. Prayerful study and reasoned discussion are called for.

It should be recalled that gradual relocation of housing patterns in South Venice has been proceeding peacefully for a long period of time, and that contacts between neighboring families have been good. Surely this precedent provides a firm foundation on which issues can be resolved amicably.

A bit of hysterical tone has been noted in some weekend dispatches and in some broadcasts about the tragic occurrence.

There has been so much progress and success in the past that it would be unjustified to take hasty stands in response to any extremist calls to action.

Best park in area; conserve funds

To the Editor:

At a time when we have been told to save on energy, and our utilities are increasing, the park commissioners are proposing a swimming contraption that will cost millions.

With the exception of Barry Loman, who voted "no," I would like to know what these men are using for brains?

Pool attendance had decreased the last few years, not because the pool is in such bad shape, but because there are more backyard swimming pools. The Paddlers pools and Arlington.

And why can't Horseshoe

Lake be used for waves?

What gives these men the idea that this "surf" pool will be the crowded? It might be very expensive to operate and

I hope the voters will weigh

the pros and cons and vote

like sane people.

For nine months out of the year it will just set there, and many people will pay and get no benefit.

A project like this always costs more than is estimated.

In my opinion, we have the best park in this vicinity; we are fortunate to have such a nice place for activities.

It would be far more beneficial to the taxpayer to have a swimming pool here, and at a much lesser cost.

I hope the voters will weigh

the pros and cons and vote

like sane people.

Also, I am glad we have the opportunity to vote. Many times the taxpayer is paying for something, for example, new schools — when the attendance is decreasing.

It is very easy to spend the other person's money.

Stack welcomes backing by Democrats and independents

Dan Stack, Republican

challenger to 34-year incumbent Melvin Price (D) in the 23rd Congressional District of Illinois, thanked the Committee to Elect Independent Democrats for its support of his candidacy at the opening of his campaign headquarters at 1920 Edison Ave., Granite City, during the weekend.

"I appreciate this unsolicited endorsement and feel it shows we have come from their enthusiasm over my candidacy," Stack said. "I am running on the Republican ticket but need

the support of Democrats to win in this election and I appreciate their support."

Dick Allen, chairman of the committee, said, "Cong. Price's health obviously does not permit him the rapport with this district that is desirable and essential to his reelection. His appearances, it is apparent that his health is poor."

Mr. Price's seniority and experience are assets, the Congress has elevated him to positions of importance on numerous committees, it is illogical to assume that one whose health does not permit

him to regularly visit his district is in physical condition to contend with the rigors and responsibility of the U.S. House of Representatives."

"Dick Allen's comments

concerning regular visitation in the district is very much to the point in this election," Stack said.

"While I am not going to make a lot of promises I cannot keep, I do promise that I will be back in the district for personal contact with every available opportunity."

If elected, I will establish active offices throughout the district where I can be contacted at any time, if it can be done without undue expense to the taxpayer.

Cong. Price in remarks last weekend on the steps of the City

Hall in Granite City pledged to continue active service to the community, and said he is hopeful of being elected to "at least one more term" in Congress.

The BAC "mathletes" scored a total of 492 points, compared to first-place Napa Community

Washington, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Morton College (Calif.) was

was BAC's top-scoring student.

Sewell will receive a plaque for his accomplishment.

BAC students who were awarded certificates were

David St. John, John Cochran,

GC aldermen reject Pontoon Road plat

An ordinance providing for the platting of 60 of an acre of ground at 2700 Pontoon Road, described as a routine procedure required by city laws, was rejected by a vote of 10 aldermen against and two in favor, during a meeting of the City Council last week.

The ordinance had been placed on first reading the previous week when a motion to place the bill on final passage failed to receive the minimum of ten votes.

The ordinance involved a piece of ground on which construction of a Pizza Hut has been proposed, a factor that resulted in objections from residents of the neighborhood. A petition bearing approximately 200 names was filed during the meeting, but the petition asked that the council members oppose the "re-zoning" of the land.

Leo Konzen, attorney representing the owners and developers, explained that no rezoning was involved since the tract had been zoned as commercial property for the last ten years.

Konzen told the aldermen the ordinance to accept the plat was a routine requirement "under your own laws" by which subdivided sections of land are recorded as guidelines for future housing, commercial and business development.

One alderman asked Konzen if a Pizza Hut could be built regardless of action on accepting or rejecting the plat. The attorney said it could build there, except that it would be required to use all of five acres instead of the subdivided tract specified in the plat.

Bill Burke, a resident of the neighborhood, spoke to the council, explaining that residents of the area "don't want any further commercial expansion," and that "there already is too much traffic and congestion."

Mayor Paul Schuler again explained there was no rezoning involved in enactment of the platting ordinance. He said he realized that the two aldermen of the ward are opposed to the proposed development, and that he is certain "there will be no action on this later."

In response to a roll call vote, Alderman Clyde Boyd said he would vote "no" because he was not certain about what he was voting on. Alderman Everett Morien also remarked that he did not know what it was about and voted "no." Other casting negative votes were Aldermen Roy Poulos, Earl Baker, Warren Decatur, Glen Sprankle, Charles Douglas, Margaret Nunn, Ronald Coleman and Paul Bowler.

Voting "yes" were Sam Whitmer and Fred "Pat" Schuman. Aldermen Lloyd Bailey and Gerald Farmley were absent.

Musatics pastor of Central Baptist

Pastor Wayne L. Musatics has become the new pastor of Central Baptist Church, 3910 Highway 111, Granite City.

Previously, he served on the faculty of Hyles-Anderson College near Hammond, Ind. Other pastorate have included Dover, Del., where the Sunday school grew from 70 to over 500. Before doing graduate work, Pastor Musatics served his first pastorate in Kempton, Ill., where a new church building was constructed.

He holds bachelor of arts, master of arts and master of divinity degrees. Both he and his wife have several years of teaching experience, ranging from elementary to the college level. Mrs. Musatics holds a bachelor of arts degree.

The family includes two daughters, Shari, 12, and Tami, 10. The pastor stresses practical application of the Bible to personal needs.

Central Baptist Church regards itself as a "soul-winning, independent, fundamental church, where people really care for people."

GC man faces three charges

Richard D. Carper, 44, of 2220 Washington Ave., faces three charges after a disturbance in the alley between the 2200 blocks of Washington and Lee avenues at 7:20 p.m. Tuesday.

Police alleged Carper's auto was blocking the alley and Carper said someone had taken his parking spot and he would not move his car until the man in the spot moved his vehicle.

The other driver said he could not move his car because he had driven over a railroad tie, trying to get out of Carper's auto's way, and a railroad spike had broken the car's gasoline line.

The man said they were getting ready to push the broken vehicle out of the way when police arrived. Officers alleged Carper was belligerent at the scene and raised his fist toward an officer.

He then was arrested on charges of disorderly conduct, blocking a public alley and refusing to obey a police officer.

When he was in the squad car, a friend allegedly tried to open the car's door to free him and a young woman used abusive language toward police, it was reported.

Both were warned and Carper was taken to the Granite City police station where he was held until 8 p.m., when he posted $70 cash bond.

Tudor heads colleges' annuitants, cites issues

William J. Tudor of Edwardsville, newly-elected president of the State Universities Annuitants' Association (SUA), outlined the organization's goals for the next year at the Seventh annual assembly of the association in Alton Park, near Monticello.

The assembly delegates, representing the 6,000 retirees who are members of SUA, heard Tudor cite a need to pass legislation in the General Assembly, address the problems of survivor members of the organization, and strive for an increase in association membership.

Well-known in the Quad-Cities, Dr. Tudor has been a member of SUA since his retirement from SIUE in 1975 after 30 years of service as a professor of sociology, director of area services and, finally, associate director of the university.

He was honored in 1975 for "continuous efforts in promoting the productivity of senior citizens of this community" in establishing the senior community service employment program through a $300,000 federal grant.

He continues in a part-time capacity with the University Press at SIUE through the Office of the Vice President and Provost.

In his inaugural address, Tudor reminded the SUA membership that "much still needs to be done," despite "excellent leadership provided in the past. It is my hope that the progress will continue."

He urged continued cooperation among various retirement organizations and with SUA legislative committee chairman Marcy Bodine of Western Illinois University as a first step in continuing the "fine teamwork at the legislative session last spring."

"I personally am concerned about the situation many of our survivor members are facing," he told the group.

"It, at times, looks as though some of our political figures desire to force our survivors onto the public aid rolls."

Turning to membership, Dr. Tudor said past president Charles Claydon of Southern Illinois University at Carbondale set a goal of doubling it, but Tudor would like to see it doubled several times.

"If we doubled our membership for a couple of more years, we would then have a good percentage of the potential persons as members and would have even more respect in the state," he commented.

To assist the membership committee and its chairman, Edna Travis of SIU at Carbondale, Tudor suggested that an ad hoc program committee be established under Logan Cobb of Eastern Illinois University to strengthen the program at the state and chapter levels to attract additional members.

Other association chairmen appointed to aid Tudor with the planning and research committee, which provides materials the association, David Lindstrom as congressional liaison officer, and H.W. Huey to the budget committee, both of the University of Illinois at Chicago.

Dr. Tudor asked all committees to work closely with new public relations committee chairman Wilbur Trimpe, president of Lewis and Clark Community College in Godfrey. Described as a longtime friend with ability in public relations, he will seek community college chairships in the southern half of Illinois.

Other elected officers are Mildred Smith Finney of the University of Illinois, president-elect, and Francis R. Brown of Illinois State University, treasurer.

Hearing on status of women

Problems of domestic violence, alcoholism, drug abuse, child support, employment, and legal rights of women are among the topics scheduled to be aired at a hearing of the Illinois Commission on the Status of Women tomorrow afternoon.

State Rep. Susan Catania (R-Chicago) said today that she and several other members of the Illinois legislature, plus public members of the commission, will listen to citizens' opinions and suggestions.

Rep. Catania, chairman of the commission, said, "We were asked by women to bring our commission members to the area. The CNSC studies and makes recommendations to the governor and the General Assembly for constructive changes that will benefit women and their families. We will listen to their needs and concerns and we will introduce appropriate legislation."

The commission will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday at 11 a.m. at the SIUE East St. Louis Center, 411 E. Broadway, first floor. Following the one-hour meeting, from 12 noon until 4:30 p.m. the commission will hold an open hearing to receive testimony and recommendations. All proceedings of the commission are open to the public.

Files damage suit

Kevin Myers has filed a $50,000 suit in Circuit Court against G. H. Sternberg and Co. in connection with a Sept. 13 accident. Myers alleges that he was driving his car north in the 200 block of Tennessee Avenue in Mitchell when the car struck a pile of dirt blocking the road way.

It alleges the dirt was placed there by a contractor doing construction by Sternberg's firm and there were no barricades, or lights to warn motorists.

general assistance in Cook County. Because the statute requiring work in exchange for benefits is being ignored, only 2,000 of these people are being placed in jobs this year. "Sixty to 70 percent of these 60,000 are potentially employable. If these individuals were put to work, it would mean a saving to the taxpayer of between $60 million and $70 million a year."

Bakalis also scored Gov. Thompson for "ignoring the promises he made to reform the welfare system during his 1976 campaign."

Bakalis said that as governor, he would propose legislation to expand provisions of the existing law, and would vigorously enforce its provisions.

"At present, the statute requires all persons applying for AFDC (aid to families with dependent children) who are not exempted for specified reasons to register with the Work Incentive Program (WIN) and to accept work when it is offered to them. I believe this is a good law and that it should be enforced, not ignored."

"I also believe it is essential that able-bodied persons applying for general assistance grants be required by statute to work in specially-created, public-sector jobs as a basic condition for payment of benefits. These jobs could be created primarily by local units of government."

"Most programs of this sort exist in other states and cities, such as Milwaukee, which features a Pay-for-Work Program, and in California, New York and West Virginia."

Public jobs or no aid, Bakalis says

Michael J. Bakalis, Democratic candidate for governor, last week called for an end to "welfare handouts" and for vigorous enforcement and expansion of mandatory work requirements in Illinois. He accused Governor James R. Thompson of "failing to fulfill the requirements of existing law regarding mandatory work requirements for those applying for public aid."

"Through his broken promises in the area of public aid," Bakalis said, "Mr. Thompson has contributed heavily to the broken lives of those unfortunate people who must depend on it."

Bakalis said that as governor, he would propose legislation to expand provisions of the existing law, and would vigorously enforce its provisions.

"At present, the statute requires all persons applying for AFDC (aid to families with dependent children) who are not exempted for specified reasons to register with the Work Incentive Program (WIN) and to accept work when it is offered to them. ## Help for newcomers to the stamp world

Linn's Stamp News has published a new, 128-page booklet, "Basic Knowledge for the Stamp Collector," to help newcomers to the hobby get started properly. Unlike most publications for the beginner, this one assumed no previous knowledge of certain basic philatelic facts and procedures. Instead, it gets right down to actual stamp collecting, color and stays there throughout the book, explaining, but never complicating, the subject matter.

And, in 22 chapters, that subject matter is broad. For instance, it covers such areas as: Types of stamps, the advantages of belonging to clubs, sources of supply, dealing with dealers, mounting stamps, albums, catalogs, condition, multiple stamps, marginal markings, specializing, preparing pages, education in the field, how to search for stamps, a web of stamps, stamp production, color identification, watermarks and some common sense concluding remarks, plus a glossary of philatelic terms. Following the index, there is even a guide to symbols and abbreviations used by advertisers and most philatelic publications and a built in perforation gauge and millimeter scale. If you or someone you know, are struggling with the "how's" of stamp collecting, this paperback book will solve a lot of the problems. And we suggest that you include a copy if you plan to give an album and stamps to a novice in the field this Christmas. (Order from Basic Knowledge for the Stamp Collector, Linn's Stamp News, P.O. Box 28, Sidney, OH 45367; $3.00, postpaid.)

Boat operators—check your tanks

Your boat has now been in operation for a number of months. According to boating authorities, this would be a good time to check the gas tank for accumulated water.

It usually gets in by condensing on the inner walls from damp air when fuel level is low. Sometimes carelessness when refueling or water in a gas dock's storage tank puts it there.

The need to drain water from the gas line filter more frequently is the usual warning of too much water, accumulating in a permanent gas tank.

Your local gasoline station or marina has a paste that changes color when exposed to water. A little is put on the end of a stick, which is then thrust to the tank's bottom to detect water.

Pumping out or removal of the tank for complete draining is usually necessary. One canful of gas line antifreeze will absorb only a small amount of water, so this method is too slow and uncertain for substantial accumulation of water.

Don Piersons on Holy Land tour

The Rev. and Mrs. Don F. Pierson are returning for the second consecutive year on a Study Tour of the Holy Land. Pastor Pierson is the co-host of the group along with Dr. David Livingston, director of Biblical Research Associates of Philadelphia. Dr. Livingston is also lecturer on Bible History, Bible Geography, and Archeology at the Reformed Episcopal Seminary of Philadelphia, and other colleges and universities. This is the second year for these former of the group to lead a study tour to the Holy Land. The Rev. Pierson is the pastor of the Namoki United Presbyterian Church of Granite City. Mrs. Pierson is the president of Church Women United of the Quad-Cities. Why return to the Holy Land on an intensive study trip again?

This is the land where lie the ruins of the world's most ancient civilizations, the land which throughout its long history, was the meeting place of East and West. It is the land of the Bible and the prophets and the land of our Lord and Savior, Rev. Pierson said.

Going to the Holy Land is an unforgettable experience. The sights and sounds enable you to recall vividly those events which have influenced the world for centuries. Take for instance the Sea of Galilee (really a lake). There within a few miles, the disciples were called by our Lord, the Sermon on the Mount was preached, the feeding of the 5,000 took place, and countless acts of love and healing that have blessed humanity are remembered with new intensity, according to the pastor.

Time after time, Christian pilgrims have returned to this land when it was possible. Personally, I have found new insights and understanding that gives a broader depth and enthusiasm to my preaching on each of my two previous visits. This 10 day trip is being anticipated with as much enthusiasm as ever. Our own extensive reading for background will enable us to get more from it than before.

The increasing tempo of change and modernization taking place there is gradually diminishing the charm and mystery of the Bible Lands. The romance and glory of walking where Jesus walked and recalling ancient Bible and historical events is a experience I love it for every moment. Maybe next year in Jerusalem for you!!!, the local pastor added.

Accompanying the Piersons from Granite City is Genevieve McCutcheon. They will be joined by persons from Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, and Maine for the 10 day Israel-Jordan tour. It is noted, there is the possibility of another all-Israel trip next year.

Educational Office Personnel Week

Special recognition is being accorded this week to persons employed in various capacities in educational offices throughout the United States.

The week of Oct. 8 to Oct. 14 has been designated "National Educational Office Personnel Week" by the National Association of Educational Secretaries (NAES).

NAES members are asking the public to recognize the significance of the position of the educational office employee in relations to the entire field of education.

Proclamations declaring this week set aside for this public recognition have been issued nationally and by state governors and mayors of local communities, including Mayor Paul Schulz of Granite City.

Catherine Wittervongel, executive secretary at Parkway School, is a national director of the Educational Secretaries Association.

Norma Roney is president of the Granite City Chapter of Educational Secretaries. She is the only national education professional association for educational office personnel in the United States.

"NAES is dedicated to the professional growth and recognition of educational office personnel as members of the education team and recognition of their contribution," she said.

NAES objectives are stressed through its four-point program that encompasses service, information, recognition, fellowship and the NAES Code of Ethics.

A consistent upgrading of professional standards through continuing academic programs, conferences, institutes and publications also are key factors in the organization's commitment to the profession, Mrs. Wittervongel said.

As a national director, the local woman is among those who will attend the national conference of NAES delegates in Seattle, Wash.

The proclamation issued by Mildred Bennett, National Association of Educational Secretaries president, and signed by Mayor Paul Schulz, reads in part:

"Whereas, the National Association of Educational Secretaries is a professional association of educational office employees, dedicated to assisting in the provision of quality education for the students of the nation, and

"Whereas, the National Association of Educational Secretaries recognizes that the education of the nation is deeply committed to her position, her profession, and the people she serves, and

"Whereas, the National Association recognizes that the educational secretary serves in one of the most crucial and demanding roles in education, and

"Whereas, the National Association of Educational Secretaries recognizes the significance of the position of the educational office personnel in relation to the entire field of education,

"Therefore, I do hereby proclaim Oct. 8 to Oct. 14 as

RECOGNIZING National Educational Office Personnel Week by signing a formal document, Granite City Mayor Paul Schulz, left, director of the National Association of Educational Secretaries, and Norma Roney, president of Granite City Association of Educational Secretaries. The observance continues through Saturday.

Temporary halt in waste paper drives

Local individuals and civic organizations who collect and sell recyclable newspapers are being asked to slow down temporarily their collection, because of a reduced demand and excessive inventories nationwide.

"Prices paid for recyclable newspapers have dropped from nearly $40 per ton last fall to less than $7 per ton."

"We wish to stress that the need for a slowdown in collection is only temporary," said John H. Veidt, vice-president for paper reclamation at Alton Box Board Co.

"The demand has decreased significantly, but it is expected to be back to normal within six months."

"The demand for most other grades of waste paper, such as old corrugated containers," is very strong and is expected to remain so for the balance of the year," he added.

Veidt said Alton Box Board has exhausted all possibilities in keeping the channels of paper recycling fully open and in keeping paper drives in operation.

There are both physical and practical limits to large inventories of waste newspaper, he noted. For example, long storage periods can cause newspaper to turn yellow or ashy, which he said greatly restricts its end use and value.

"There are many reasons for the decreased demand for recycled newspapers," Veidt said. "Primarily, manufacture of cellulose-fiber residential insulation — whose principal component is reclaimed waste paper treated to make it fire retardant — slowed down last winter because of pending federal regulations."

"Now that these regulations are in full effect, a gradual increase in demand for waste paper is expected by insulation manufacturers."

"Waste paper dealers have exhausted their markets. While the oversupply primarily affects states east of the Rocky Mountains, shipment of excess waste paper to the West Coast is not considered economically feasible."

Veidt recommended that civic organizations such as Boy Scouts and church and school groups who use paper collection as fund-raising tools continue their plans and keep their committees active, but for now defer their actual collections.

Births, deaths show decline

Births in the Quad-City area during September fell slightly below those of the same month a year ago, along with the number of deaths, according to a vital statistics report released by City Clerk Robert Stevens.

There was a total of 66 births during last month, compared with 73 during September 1977. Thirty-four deaths last month was a decline of 13 below the same month a year ago. There was one fetal loss, compared to none a year ago.

The September statistics brought to 545 the total number of births so far this year, compared to 756 during the same nine-month period a year ago.

There has been a total of 340 deaths this year, down from 418 in the same period in 1977. There were nine fetal deaths during the nine months of this year, the same number as last year.

Collides with lock wall cell construction

Collisions don't happen only on highways. A new sheet pile end cell is being constructed at the Alton Locks-Dam 26 downstream end of the main lock guideway extension. This cell will replace the existing cell, which has deteriorated beyond repair.

When constructed, it may assist all tows in entering and departing the main lock. Work began Oct. 2.

At 3:40 a.m. Oct. 3, the motor vessel Yankton and tow, while northbound for lockage at Locks and Dam No. 26, came in too fast, struck and damaged the lower template which was placed for setting and driving sheet piles for the new terminal cell.

Prior to the collision, the shift chief on duty was asking the Yankton to slow down, Army Engineer District officials said. They added, "In view of the above, all are reminded that full cooperation is required while traversing the construction site."

"Damage to in-place work, construction equipment, etc. could result in extending the length of the contract period and also increase the delay to tows in the area."

"All boat operators are to maintain radio communication and full control of their tows, and to cooperate with the lockmaster or his representative while in this vicinity."

School district named in suit

A law suit has been filed against the Granite City Community Unit School District 9 on behalf of a young student who allegedly was injured at Grigsby Junior High School Dec. 21, 1977.

The suit has been filed in Madison County Circuit Court for Larry Kousser, a minor, by his mother, Sharon Reagan. It alleges a room divider at the school was closed on the finger of the boy, necessitating the amputation of part of the finger.

The suit seeks sufficient compensation for the boy's injuries of not less than $15,000.

Hearing Thursday on rail, dam, highway, airport and transit topics

State Senator Sam M. Vadala (D-5th Legislative District), said Thursday he is pleased to have been selected as chairman of one of the six statewide public subcommittee hearings scheduled by the Illinois Transportation Study Commission during October.

Vadala said the hearing will be held Thursday at the Edwardsville Holiday Inn. "It will be an important element in the formulation of future transportation plans for this area," the senator commented.

Noting that the commission, on which he serves as a member, is charged under Illinois law with making recommendations on future transportation needs and funding to the General Assembly next March, Sen. Vadala said, "Many of us on the commission felt it was essential that — early in the process — we listen to the views and opinions of the citizens who will use and pay for our transportation services and facilities. These hearings are designed to accomplish that."

Although the hearings are being held to obtain public input regarding all transportation modes, Vadala said he expects that highways will be the subject of a considerable amount of the testimony at the local hearing.

He added that, in his own mind, there is little question as to citizen demand for more and better roads. "However, he said, 'obtaining the necessary funds to meet these demands is the problem.'"

He also said that any testimony concerning the Bi-State Transit System, the Columbia-Waterloo airport outlook, the rail relocation project for this area and Lock and Dam 26 replacement will be of vital interest to commission members.

Vadala said he urges "all interested parties to appear at the Edwardsville hearing and share their views on any and all transportation matters" with the commission.

Venice school advisory panels to name officers

The Title I and Title VII districtwide advisory councils of Venice Community Unit School District Three will hold elections of officers for 1978-79 on Thursday, Oct. 19, at 1 p.m. in the school library, according to Mrs. Althea A. Cross, director of Title VII, and Robert Blattner, coordinator of Title I.

The Title I and Title VII programs for 1978-79 will be explained and staff members will be introduced.

Funding for Title I and Title VII programs this year will make it possible for more students to receive remedial instruction in reading and mathematics and to participate in educationally enriching experiences through field trips to cultural productions.

Parents and interested citizens are being urged to attend the programs at any time, and they are particularly encouraged to attend the monthly meetings.

Many groups urge 'yes' vote on corporate personal taxes

The Committee Against Replacement Taxes, which is fighting for a "yes" vote on the Nov. 7 blue ballot to keep personal property taxes on corporations, has named three co-chairmen to spearhead its voter drive in Illinois.

Selected by the committee are three leaders in business, industry and agriculture: Chicago Realtor Leo J. Sheridan Jr., vice-president of L. J. Sheridan Co., who will head Chicago and suburban efforts for a "yes" vote; Peter P. Donis, executive vice-president of Caterpillar Tractor Co., Peoria, who will focus on the downstate urban drive; and Harold B. Steele, president of the Illinois Agricultural Association, Bloomington, who will lead the committee's rural information campaign.

According to the co-chairmen, a "yes" vote on the blue ballot is a vote against any new taxes.

At present, the proposed replacement tax package in Springfield calls for three new taxes — not all of which are directed at corporations. It is for this reason that so many citizens and business organizations support a "yes" vote on the blue ballot, the trio said.

Among the organizations urging a "yes" vote are: Taxpayers Federation of Illinois, Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, Illinois Association of School Boards, Illinois Education Association, Illinois Association of Community Mental Health Authorities.

Also, Illinois Society of Professional Engineers, Illinois Agricultural Association, Illinois Municipal League, Illinois State Medical Society, ED-RED (Cook-Lake-DuPage counties school districts), Chicago Real Estate Board, Township Officials of Illinois

Illinois Manufacturers' Association, Illinois Coal Association, and Illinois State Chamber of Commerce.

"Every day, as more and more people understand the issue and the results of defeat of the blue ballot, the committee grows."

"On Sept. 20, in the gubernatorial debates, both Republican Governor Jim Thompson and Democratic candidate for governor Michael Bakalis strongly supported a yes vote on the blue ballot," Sheridan said.

"Why? The answer is simple. 'The personal property tax on corporations is a steady, predictable revenue source which doesn't fluctuate with the ups and downs of the economy, as do the income tax and sales tax.'"

"It stays in the locality where it is collected, and provides business with a known expense. The revenue and distribution replacement alternatives are unclear and vague, and could cause long-term problems. "For school districts, park districts, city and county services — the immediate effects of an alternative tax package means a shift in tax distribution."

"This would cause many schools and local governments to lose millions of dollars, with only one source to turn to — higher real estate taxes."

"Let's face facts," Sheridan said, "When corporations and other businesses are forced to increase prices in order to maintain profit levels and remain competitive — because of increased or new taxes — the public picks up the tab. For this reason alone, people should make sure they vote yes."

"If a person is against new taxes, he or she should vote yes on the blue ballot in November. Taxpayers simply can't afford the alternatives."

North wears GC soccer crown . . .

Pierce and fired-up Steelers shut out South 2-0

BY PETE HAYES

Sports Editor of the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — According to Granite City North soccer coach Bob Kehoe, his squad's victory here Thursday was more than just another win . . . there were THREE things about it which made it different.
1) It was a playoff points game, which meant that the win counted heavily on whether or not the Steelers would get the home-field advantage in the first round. 2) It broke a long winning streak by the opponents. 3) and, oh yeah, it WAS against Granite City South . . . the enemy from the other side of town.

THE STEELERS, though, out-shot heavily by South, struck quickly, then relied on a stout defense and some strong goal-tending from Tony Pierce and defeated the Warriors 2-0 on South's home turf . . . known as "The Gauntlet," referring to the line of punishment a young brave must endure to become a warrior . . . and its meaning is appropriate when referring to South's home field.

The Warriors had not lost there since Sept. 22, 1975, when they fell 4-1 to St. Thomas Aquinas. The only other loss on that field for South came in 1974 when North defeated them in a sectional playoff game. It was the last time North defeated South.

Yardstick

	North	South
Corner kicks	2	5
Shots on goal	3	13
Saves	12	2
Fouls	26	16

ACCORDING to statistics, the Steelers managed only three shots on goal. It was it, turned out, they really only needed one of those.

A goal by North's Bob Batey at the 9:17 mark of the first period was all the Steelers needed. He fought for the loose ball in front of the South goal in a crowd, gained control and fired a blind shot into the bottom right-hand side of the net for a lead North would not relinquish.

"All I could think about was just fire it away," said Batey. "I really didn't have any time to think about it, all I remember was trying to get it down. I guess I did, huh?"

North coach Bob Kehoe repeated a story after the game which emphasized how important it was to Batey to "keep the ball down."

"For weeks, we've been trying to get Bob to keep the ball down when he shoots," said Kehoe. "But he's had trouble doing so. It seems that when he got in on goal, he'd get in a hurry and fire the ball way over the top of the goal."

"I TOLD HIM that he wasn't going to get too many shots on goal against a team like South, so he'd have to keep the ball down."

"So I asked him toward the end of the game how many shots he'd had on goal . . . he said 'one'."

Kehoe was elated after the victory. "This is absolutely the finest effort I've ever seen on the part of my kids," he said.

"This game meant so much to us . . . we really needed it. It was like a shot in the arm for our soccer program."

"But the effort by the team is what won the game. Not the coaching . . . it was the players."

Bob Kehoe's charges were just as lavish in their praise of his efforts. "Coach Kehoe's had us charged up for this one," said Batey. "He convinced us that we could do it."

"Coach has done a super job," said goalie Pierce. "He drilled us and drilled us. But we needed it. I think, as of this game, we've hit it together as a team for the first time."

BUT IT TOOK a nearly superhuman effort on the part of Pierce to save the day for the Steelers. He stopped more bullets than Bonnie and Clyde's car, including a point-blank header late in the second half with North ahead 1-0.

In a scramble in front of the goal, the ball was kicked out to South's David Fernandez. He fired a shot toward goal from the left side which Schuler connected with directly in front of Pierce and the North goal, just about two feet away.

But Pierce lunged to his right and caught the ball, kept his balance and did not fall beyond the goal line. If he had, it would have been a goal for South and a tie game.

DID PIERCE even have a chance to see the shot, or was it more instinct? "Oh sure I saw it," said Pierce nonchalantly. "I was really just trying to go up and get a piece of the ball, but I was lucky enough to catch it."

Luck. While North had its share of good luck, South had an equal share of bad luck. Early in the game (at the 17:08 mark of the first half), South's Phil Beljanski had a wide-open net staring him in the face and he fired the ball over the net by 10 feet. Fernandez had a total of four indirect kicks that Pierce seemed to know exactly where they were going and made the save.

Just 48 seconds after Pierce's save on Schuler's head-ball, Mike Robertson took advantage of South's attack plan, got a breakaway on South goalie Andy Castillo, and fired a high shot which Castillo managed to tip, but not enough. The ball landed in the left-hand corner of the net, making the score 2-0.

"We were in an all-out attack type offense," said South Coach Gene Baker. "We were trying to get the equalizer. We had to have that one to stay in the game. As it turned out, we didn't even get that one."

THE GAME was filled with the usual rough play that has become associated with North-South games. But Kehoe felt this one was a little rougher than necessary. "At times, it appeared as if some of the (South's) players weren't out there to play good soccer, but instead to hurt our players."

Baker was mystified at the Kehoe statement. "Just check the stats and draw your own conclusions," was his advice to reporters. The statistics showed that North was whistled for 26 fouls, while South was called for 16.

Kehoe: 'It'll get even tougher'

By PETE HAYES

Sports Editor of the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — Bob Kehoe was getting ready for a busy Saturday of soccer. Almost 24 hours had passed since his team defeated arch-rival Granite City South 2-0 and broke a four-year winless streak at the hands of South. Now it was time to get ready for more. But it wasn't going to be easy.

"I'm scared about this weekend," said Kehoe in his office on the second floor of North gymnasium building. "After a big victory like this, any game's going to be a let-down . . . much less a game with the likes of the two teams we're playing tomorrow."

As things turned out, Kehoe had reason to worry. His Steelers came out of the day Saturday with a tie (2-2 with Collinsville) and a loss (9-0 to Quincy Notre Dame).

But getting back to the sub-

NORTH COACH BOB KEHOE

ject of his team's victory over South the previous day, Kehoe beamed. "We finally got it through our heads that they (South) are NOT unbeatable. It took a lot out of us physically, but we managed to come through it alive."

The big one? A myriad of soccer photographs cover the wall of Kehoe's office. From all over the world of soccer. Some from SIU-Edwardsville, some from Kehoe's days as coach of the NASL St. Louis Stars, some from area papers of his North team.

One of the photos shows two soccer players going after the ball and looking directly at each other. Kehoe did a little touch-up job on the photo so that the players appear to be talking to each other.

"Hey, do you think North's soccer team will go to state this year?" it is written above one player's head.

"Nah," says the other player. "It's the same old story . . . they're a good team but they can't win the big game."

"That picture's been up for about a week or so," laughed Kehoe. "I guess from the outcome of the South game, it has had the psychological effect it was intended to on the players."

Game too rough? Kehoe, speaking about the game Thursday against South reiterated a statement made to reporters after the contest.

"They (South) were getting away with some things out there I couldn't believe," said the North coach. "On paper, though, it looks as if it was all

MOUNT VERNON — A cool Brad Pancost strolled off the field. His Mount Vernon Rams had just handed Granite City North its fifth straight defeat 19-0 here Saturday.

"Hey Brad, this is great! . . . Way to go coach! . . . Hey, we really needed this one," were some of the shouts of encouragement Pancost got from Mount Vernon fans. But the second-year Mount Vernon coach was a little more subtle in his approach to the game.

"We did need this one," he said. "We lost big the two weeks before this and needed this one badly."

"This was a 19-0 shot in the arm for us," said Pancost. "We had two really big plays that accounted for about half our offense, but they also accounted for 12 of our points."

Those two plays were end-around reverses that resulted in touchdown runs of 70 and 41 yards. Senior split end Chris Bauer scampered 70 yards around left end with the first reverse for the first score of the game.

game and a 6-0 Mount Vernon lead (the point-after attempt for coach). "Hey, we really needed this one," were some of the shouts of encouragement Pancost got from Mount Vernon fans. But the second-year Mount Vernon coach was a little more subtle in his approach to the game.

"We did need this one," he said. "We lost big the two weeks before this and needed this one badly."

"This was a 19-0 shot in the arm for us," said Pancost. "We had two really big plays that accounted for about half our offense, but they also accounted for 12 of our points."

Those two plays were end-around reverses that resulted in touchdown runs of 70 and 41 yards. Senior split end Chris Bauer scampered 70 yards around left end with the first reverse for the first score of the game.

That first Mount Vernon touchdown also came after the Rams had received a gift . . . courtesy of the North defense. The Steelers appeared to have stopped the Rams on a third-down-and-eight yards to go, and Mount Vernon was forced to punt from deep in its own territory. But on the punt (which would have given North good field position), Steeler Rich Awall ran into Mount Vernon punter.

The 70-yard touchdown came just two plays after the roughing-the-kicker call.

"Those are just part of the game," said Wyrostek about the penalty. "It's just as something we're going to have to learn to live with and work around . . . it happens to every team."

Meanwhile, on the other side of the line, North's defense found itself on the field a large portion of the game . . . mainly because of the Mount Vernon defense.

Even though the Steelers had one more first down than Mount Vernon (16-15), the bulk of their first downs came in bunches on a third-quarter drive.

That drive carried North from its own 17 yard line to the 43 yard line of Mount Vernon. But the thrust was ended when a Danny Patterson pass, intended for Rick Bauer, was intercepted by Mount Vernon's Terry Swinnen who returned the ball to his own 46-yard line.

Swinnen was more than a defensive star, however. He also was the workhorse running back for the Rams. He carried the ball 16 times and had a touchdown called back.

Swinnen's touchdown that was called back came in the first quarter with about two minutes remaining. He scampered off-tackle, avoided two would-be North tacklers, and ran 30 yards. However, a clipping call against the Rams nullified the play.

On a fourth-down-and-18, and 23 seconds left in the game, North attempted a fake punt from its own 21-yard line. But punter Robbie Chapman gained only four of the needed 18, thus turning the ball over to Mount Vernon. Swinnen gained 24-and-a-half of the needed 25 yards, but teammate Jim Cooper plunged over from less than a yard out for the final score of the night.

"Swinnen's a very smart running back," said Pancost. "He's got the ability to follow his blockers, but also to recognize when a hole is plugged up to shift to either side of it and follow his blocking to a little daylight."

"He's very agile and shifty," Wyrostek agreed. "They (Mount Vernon) have an awful lot of outside quickness," he said. "But we had our chances to stay in the game." "I'll tell you," said Wyrostek. "With the injuries we've had this season, we're going to have to live up to the fact that most schools our size do."

Steelers run The Gauntlet

GRANITE CITY — It was a long time in coming ... in fact there were two things which took a long time to occur. But both did here Thursday when Granite City North's soccer Steelers defeated cross-town rival South 2-0 on South's home field.

The Steeler victory marked the first time the team had defeated the Warrior kickers since 1974 and the first time South had lost at home since 1974. Oddly enough, it was the same game in 1974 involved in both "firsts" ... the last home loss for South was to North in a '74 Sectional playoff game.

South's home field has been nicknamed "The Gauntlet," referring to the long line of punishment an Indian brave must go through to become a Warrior.

If taken literally, then, this means that North's Steelers are now Warriors ... for they have successfully run The Gauntlet.

Bunch
A member of the cabbage family, Italian broccoli was cultivated as far back as the 16th century, is a first cousin to cauliflower and served practically the same way. Broccoli is a good source of vitamins C and A. It also provides 1/2 mg. of iron per cup. Low in calories (40 per cup). In cooking, use as little water as possible and cook rapidly, this tends to preserve the nutrients. Topped with cheese sauce, fresh tender broccoli cannot be beat.
